Standard Project Warranty

Residential projects less than 4 levels and non-habitable[^] projects are eligible for a Standard Project Warranty. Once Accredited, Dulux Accredited Powder Coaters are required to submit powder coated production samples on a monthly basis in order to apply for and issue Standard Project Warranties.

Commercial Project Warranty

Residential projects greater than 3 levels and commercial projects are eligible for a Commercial Project Warranty. High rise residential and commercial projects are less sheltered from neighbouring buildings, raising their exposure and reducing their ease of maintenance, the product performance expectations and warranty testing requirements for these projects greater compared to other project types.

To apply for and issue Commercial Project Warranties, Dulux Accredited Powder Coaters must:

1. Gain warranty pre-approval of the product chosen to ensure the correct product is being specified.
2. Supply powder coated samples from the project which are then tested at our Australian and New Zealand technical centres to ensure they meet the strict standards required to gain a Dulux Alumi Shield™ and/or Steel Shield™ Project Warranty.
